PREFACE

The Index to the Historical Microfiche Series — Statistical Publications since Federation is a comprehensive listing of publications released by the Central Office of the Australian Bureau of Statistics between 1901 and 1990 and publications released by the ABS State Offices between 1985 and 1990. These publications are available on microfiche in the Historical Microfiche Series — Statistical Publications since Federation. The Index will be updated annually to coincide with the release of further fiche supplements.

The Historical Microfiche Series complements another source of official statistics on microfiche the Colonial Microfiche Series 1804 to 1901 which was released by the ABS in 1989. These two microfiche series provide an important and ongoing reference to Australia's history as reflected by official statistics, and are an invaluable primary source for scholars of Australian life from the first white settlement to the present day.

The Index provides a full history of ABS published output. It is a major reference tool not only for libraries which have a set of the Historical Microfiche, but for any user interested in knowing what lists/ica\statistics are available.

Acknowledgements

This publication was prepared by the Australian Bureau of Statistics Library under the general direction of the Director, Juddth Miller. The Index was compiled by Robyn Cammack and Kate Elphick. Additional professional advice was provided by Lianne Gratton and Dale Chatwin, the ABS Publishing Section were responsible for the production of the Index and the ABS Graphics Unit designed the cover.

INTRODUCTION

The Australian Bureau of Statistics is the official statistical organisation for the Commonwealth and State Governments. Its main function is to collect statistical information on a wide variety of social and economic activities, to compile and publish statistics and to disseminate them to Government, the private sector and the community in general.

This Index lists all publications which have been released by ABS Central Office from 1901 to 1990 and ABS State Offices from 1985 to 1990. The Index will cumulate annually.

Publications listed in the Index are available for purchase on microfiche in the Historical Microfiche Series — Statistical Publications since Federation. The tiche are available for purchase either as a full set or as individual titles.

SECTIONS OF THIS INDEX

The Index comprises the following sections:

PART A - NATIONAL PUBLICATIONS

This section includes a title list of all national publications published since 1901, arranged according to subject group and subgroup. A short description of the subjects covered can be found at the beginning of each subgroup.

PART B - STATE AND TERRITORY PUBLICATIONS

This section includes a title list of State and Territory publications published since 1985, arranged in ABS Catalogue number sequence within subject groups and subgroups. Note that, in addition to the State and Territory publications listed in PART B, most national publications contain separate statistics for States and Territories as components of Australian totals.

PART C - INDEXES

Titles index: an alphabetical list of all titles referred to in PARTS A and B referenced to the Microfliche number (national publications) or ABS Catalogue number (State and Territory publications) and page number.

ABS Catalogue Number index: a list of all national publications that have been allocated an ABS catalogue number. This index is arranged in catalogue number order and referenced to the Microfiche number and page number. As State publications are listed in Catalogue Number order they have not been included in this index.

Subject index: an alphabetically arranged broad subject listing referenced to the Microfliche number (national publications) or ABS Catalogue number (State and Territory publications) and page number.

NUMBERING SYSTEMS

Three separate numbering systems are used in this Index.

The first, the Microfiche Number, is constructed solely as a reference aid to guide the user from the Index to the required fiche and to facilitate refiling, it was necessary to create this number because from 1901 to 1967 ABS publications were not identified by either a reference number or a catalogue number. Due to the lack of a consistent number to classify material, national titles have been arranged alphabetically within broad subject groups. As serial titles have changed and new titles have been added to the set, however, it has not been possible to maintain this alphabetical sequence and consequently a Microfiche number has been devised to classify the material. This number does not change if the publication changes title and is constructed from the broad subject area number (such as 33 for Vital Statistics), and a running number, for example 33-009.

The second number, shown at the end of the publication title, is the Reference Number which was used between 1967 and 1977, for example 15.1.

The third number, also shown at the end of the publication title, is the ABS Catalogue Number which has been in use since 1977, for example 3301.0.

Some titles may have undergone a change in either the Reference number or the ABS Catalogue number at some time, in which case more than one number may appear. Titles which do not have either a Reference number or an ABS Catalogue number were released before 1967.

DATA COMPARABILITY

Readers should be aware that over a period of time the data contained in certain titles may be subject to changes in format, presentation or collection methodology. While such titles may be presented as a continuing publication, the data contained may not necessarily be comparable from one issue to another. Readers are advised to consult the notes at the beginning of publications, which will alert them to these changes, before comparing data.

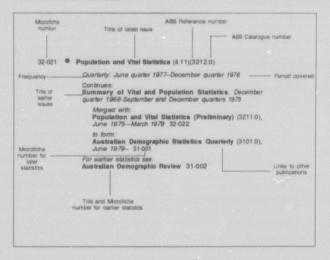

HOW TO USE PARTS A-C

PART A - NATIONAL PUBLICATIONS

This section of the Index is divided into subject groups and subgroups similar to those found in the Catalogue of Publications and Products (1101.0).

As most publications have had at least one title change over the years, the latest title has been presented as the main title. Earlier titles (where applicable) follow.

Below is an example of an entry from PART A of the Index. The parts of the entry have been annotated to assist readers.

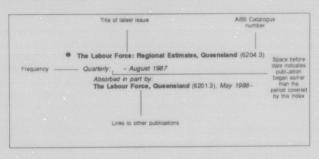

PART B - STATE AND TERRITORY PUBLICATIONS

These publications are arranged numerically by ABS Catalogue number showing the latest title first followed by earlier titles.

State publications have been fiched since 1985. Titles published after this date are listed in the Index. If a title began before 1985 and is still continuing, no dates are shown in the Index. If a title began before 1985 but has now ceased or changed, the ending date only, preceded by four spaces, is indicated.

Australian Capital Territory and Northern Territory publications have been fiched from the earliest date of release. Publications issued before 1985 are included with the National titles while those issued after this date are listed under the Territory and follow the State publications.

Following is an example of an entry from PART B of the Index.

PART C - INDEXES

Subject index. The subject index is intended as a guide only and users should consult a broader term if the topic they require is not found. Particular items of production and specific overseas trade commodities are largely omitted. While some commodities do have a subject entry, this only occurs where there has previously been a separate publication on this topic. For those interested in particular subject areas, for example foreign trade or employment, it may be convenient to identify the range of publications from the list of subject groupings in the contents pages and by this means gain access to all publications within that subject.

Multi-subject or compendium publications, such as Yearbook Australia, have not been indexed. Many of these publications have their own detailed index and readers are advised to consult these for specific topics not found as individual subjects.

Titles published by the State and Territory Offices which contain information unique to that geographic area have been indexed to state or territory level. It should be noted however that national publications, indexed without any geographical suddivision, may also contain statistics specific to the State or Territory as a component of Australian totals.

MICROFICHE SPECIFICATIONS

ABS publications are filmed on 148mm x 105mm microfiche, containing a maximum of 98 images per microfiche for standard A4 publications. The reduction rate is approximately 24 times. The publications have been filmed onto negative diazo microfiche.

DISCLAIMER

Due to the age and condition of source material, the reproduction quality of the microfiche may not be of a consistent quality.

Major reservations concerning microfiche quality may be directed to The Director of Library Services at the above address.

CARE OF MICROFICHE

The microfiche are polyester-base, diazo film duplicates, and they should be stored in their cabinet away from sources of ammonia and ozone. Ammonia can be found in many cleaning solutions, and ozone can be generated by photocopiers and laser printers.

Prolonged exposure to light may have adverse effects on image quality. We recommend that the microfiche be returned to the cabinet when not in use.

Continual handling of the microfiche, even under favourable conditions, causes some wear; but wear can be accelerated greatly by certain factors which can be controlled - scratching can occur if the microfiche are dirty or the equipment and handling methods are not suitable.

Dirt can be removed from the surface of the microfiche by wiping gently with a lintless cloth or proprietary microfiche cleaner.

Microfiche may be subject to chemical interactions when stored in the same container as silver-gelatin microfiche.

The use of rubber bands to contain microfiche is not recommended, as residual sulphur from the vulcanisation process can encourage growth of microscopic blemishes. Adhesive tapes, glues, many paper types and printing inks can have the same effect.

The potential life of the microfliche is heavily dependent on usage and storage conditions. For these microfliche the recommended storage conditions are: a relative humidity between 15% and 60%; and a maximum continual storage temperature of 25 degrees celsius.

Under normal storage and usage conditions the microfiche should retain their image quality for over 50 years.

SUBJECT INDEX

This Index is a broad subject listing referenced to the Microfiche number (national publications) or ABS Catalogus number (State and Territory publications) and page number.

The subject index is intended as a guide only and users should consult a broader term if the topic they require is not found. For those interested in particular subject areas, for example foreign trade or employment, it may be more convenient to identify the range of the publications from the list of subject groupings in the contents pages and by this means gain access to all publications within that subject.

Titles published by the State and Territory Offices which contain information unique to that geographic area have been indexed to State or Territory level. It should be noted however that national publications, indexed without any geographic subdivision, may also contain statistics specific to the State or Territory as a component of Australian totals.
